APLI: Motivation by Pascal Massol

Dear fellow European dairy farmers,

By this evening, 50% of the French dairy farmers will have joined the milk strike since it started three days ago. It is the fruit of long months of our labour in the field.

We recognised that we were responsible for the failure of the first European strike. We realised that to take on a fight on such a scale again we would have to be totally and convincingly mobilised en masse to assure you that this time France would not be the reason for any failure.

This mobilisation has exceeded our expectations by far and is growing all the time.

The French dairy farmers understood that the solution for our future could be nothing other than European.

The French dairy farmers understood that we were neither adversaries nor competitors, but partners. The number of French strikers can only soar, as soon as every country follows their lead.

It is you, all of you, now, that hold the keys to a historic victory.

Do not miss for the second time the opportunity to let grass-roots Europe assert itself: the Europe of our future, the Europe of the real farmers.

Pascal Massol, President of the APLI and striker
